

Role Description

Role Title: Occasional Helper (Beavers, Cubs, Scouts or Explorers)

What does this mean?

Occasional Helpers are the people who may not have time to come along to every section meeting but would still like to help out when they can. This means you can come and help when it suits you, be it an hour a month or only at certain camps or events. Basically, any help you can give, when you can give it.

Who is responsible for you?

The Group Scout Leader (GSL)

Requirements if you take on this Role:

This role does not have any training requirements; however, we would like you to undertake:

- Module 1 – Essential Information Training Session
- And, the ongoing safeguarding training.

Main Tasks:

- Assisting/Supporting the Section in any way you can.

Other things you may be asked to help with:

- Where possible, Support Fundraisers and other events organised by others within the Group
- Any other tasks as agreed with the Group Scout Leader

 There may be “un-official” roles available that could suit your schedule a little better. Some of these un-official roles will require you to become a Section Assistant due to the nature of the information you would be in contact with, which would mean additional training. ***
